WIRELESS GETS THE GO-AHEAD

By Russ Lawrence

russ.lawrence@nlhnews.co.uk

A JUDGE has ruled the Wireless music festival can go ahead in Finsbury Park next month after rejecting a High Court action seeking to get it banned.

He threw out a legal challenge mounted by campaigners to overturn Haringey Council's decision to allow the three-day festival to return to the park, where it was staged last summer, on July 8, 9 and 10.

Last year's event, which attracted 50,000 people, was marred by problems of antisocial behaviour and violence.

Campaigners also complained that the public were excluded from large areas of the park for weeks on end as stages and an eight-foot high perimeter fence were put up and dismantled, while wear and tear on the grass left it looking like a dust bowl.

The Friends of Finsbury Park group applied for a judicial review at a High Court hearing in the Strand last Friday having raised £11,000 through online crowd-funding to cover legal costs.

They argued that the council's decision to grant the festival permission was unlawful under the Greater London Parks and Open Space Act 1967 because more than 25 per cent of the park was off-limits to the public when the maximum permitted by the legislation was 10 per cent.

But the case was dismissed by judge Mr Justice Supperstone.

The ruling was welcomed by the council, which said events like Wireless raised £400,000 for improvements to Finsbury Park last year.

Clearing a path: A High Court, judge has ruled that the Wireless music festival can be held in Finsbury Park next month. Campaigners are considering an appeal Peray Ahmet, the council's cabinet member for the environment, said: "We are pleased with the ruling, which means that large-scale live music events in Finsbury Park and open spaces across London are no longer under threat.

"Events like Wireless make a huge contribution to London's cultural scene and in Haringey bring in hundreds of thousands of pounds which are spent on improving our parks and attracting more visitors.

"We will continue to work with residents and event organisers to ensure the Wireless festival is safe and enjoyable for all," she added.

The Friends of Finsbury Park group said it was considering an appeal. Chair Tom Palin said: "We believe the judge was wrong to dismiss the claim.

"After the ruling, the council stated that live music events in public parks were no longer under threat.

"But instead, the very parks that these events are to be hosted in are to become the victims, unprotected and free to be abused, and local residents will have to suffer.

"If the council goes through with all of its planned events for next year, huge areas of Finsbury Park will be closed to the public for more than four months in the summer," he added.

Hospice earns mayor's praise

HARINGEY'S new mayor has hailed the help offered by a children's hospice to youngsters in the borough with life-limiting conditions.

Mayor Al Gul Ozbek spoke of his admiration for the care and support provided to Haringey families on a tour of Haven House Children's Hospice.

Together with respite services at its building in Woodford Green, Essex, it also provides a toy home loan service.

The hospice serves north and north-east London boroughs as well as west Essex and east Hertfordshire.

"I am so impressed with Haven House," said Mr Ozbek. "It gives priceless help to families and I would appeal for groups and individuals in Haringey to support its work."

Woman rescued following blaze

FIREFIGHTERS wearing breathing apparatus rescued a woman from a blaze above a café on Friday afternoon.

She was led to safety down a smoke-filled staircase after the fire broke out in a second-floor flat at the three-storey building in Green Lanes, Haringey.

The woman was taken to hospital suffering from smoke inhalation.

More than 35 firefighters from Tottenham, Hornsey, Walthamstow, Kentish Town and Stoke Newington stations tackled the blaze after the alarm had been raised at 3.45pm.

They just over an hour to bring the fire under control. The communal staircase and landing between the first and second floors, part of a second-floor flat and part of the roof were damaged.

The cause of the fire is being investigated.

Opposition leader raps Labour over vacant homes increase

THE number of empty homes in Haringey has been branded a scandal by the Liberal Democrats after the most up-to date figures available revealed there were 2,397 vacant dwellings in 2015.

The statistics from the Department of Communities and Local Government show that the borough is ranked the eighth worst London for unoccupied homes.

The number of vacant homes has increased by 1,000 on the figure recorded in 2014. The statistics include empty council homes, as well as housing association and private sector homes.

Haringey Liberal Democrats have rapped the Labour-controlled council for allowing thousands of homes to stand idle when it says there are so many people in need on the housing waiting list.

"Labour councillors say their top priority is housing, but it has not built a single council home in Haringey for more than 25 years," said Lib Dem leader Gail Engert.

"These thousands of homes lying empty in the borough could make a huge difference if the council took action.

"The Liberal Democrats will keep fighting the residents' corner and push Labour to increase the housing supply in Haringey," she added.

No more free swimming for children after cash dries up

By Clare Casey

newsdesk@nlhnews.co.uk

CASH-STRAPPED Enfield Council is axing its free swims in the summer scheme, leaving thousands of children high and dry.

Faced with having to make millions of pounds in savings, the local authority has announced that free swimming for all young people and free gym use for 14 and 15-year-olds in the school holidays will now only be made available to the most overweight and deprived youngsters.

All others will have to pay £2.10 per session, with a monthly rate of £23 also available for eight to 15-year-olds.

The move has been slammed by opposition Conservative members, who claim it is short-sighted and irresponsible in a borough where more than a quarter of Year 6 pupils are classified as "very overweight" – the sixth-highest rate in London.

And in seven Enfield wards – Edmonton Green, Lower Edmonton, Upper Edmonton, Ponders End, Haselbury, Turkey Street and Enfield Lock – 42 per cent of 11-year-olds are obese.

Dogan Delman, shadow cabinet member for leisure services, said: "I am amazed the council has decided to penalise parents by taking the easy option of cancelling free swimming and gym sessions for children in the summer holidays."

"This also makes a complete mockery of the council's claim it is doing all that it can to tackle childhood obesity. That councillors for some of the most deprived wards in the country agreed with this decision is extremely disappointing."

The move comes just a couple of months after Jeremy Hunt, the Secretary of State for Health, described the rise in childhood obesity as a "national emergency" and promised a "game-changing" response from the government.

'Disappointing': Dogan Delman, Enfield Council's shadow cabinet member for leisure services

He stated that childhood obesity is set to drive up costs for health services by billions of pounds unless money is invested in grassroots preventative schemes.

But cash-strapped Enfield said it had little choice.

Krystle Fonyonga, cabinet member for community safety and public health, said: "Swimming was free for all under-16s until summer 2010 when the government of the time stopped funding the scheme."

"Enfield Council was committed to retaining free swimming and continued to subsidise the initiative, but continuing central government cuts to Enfield Council mean that we are £118million worse off today than we were in 2010 and further cuts from central government will mean that we lose an additional £56m by 2019/20, which means we simply cannot afford to continue to subsidise this provision."

According to the council, the previous universal swimming offer had nearly 150,000 visits in the past three years and the free gym offer was used nearly 15,000 times.

Elsewhere, hundreds of local authorities in the country have been forced to scrap the popular scheme since the government stopped its funding in 2010.

Things that go bump in the night

Hollywood spook-tacular inspired by infamous Enfield haunting hits big screen

By Julia Gregory

julia.gregory@nlhnews.co.uk

THE eagerly-awaited Hollywood film about the haunting of an Enfield house went on general release in UK cinemas on Monday.

The Conjuring 2: The Enfield Poltergeist is inspired by a series of unexplained supernatural goings-on in a house in Green Street, Brimsdown, which made headlines around the world in 1977.

The family involved – a mother, her two daughters and two sons – complained of bizarre events including furniture shaking and moving on its own, objects inexplicably being hurled across the room and one of the girls speaking in a demonic voice.

Paranormal investigators also allegedly witnessed these incidents.

The film charts the terrifying demonic possession by a poltergeist of an 11-year-old girl who appears to levitate above her bed.

Much of the location shooting for the new movie was filmed in the borough – not in the original street, but in Graeme Road, Enfield Town, which doubled for it. For more than two weeks last winter, residents living there saw their road turned into a film set as a crew of 150 technicians re-created the authentic look of the mid-1970s.

Those exterior shots were edited in post production, with the interior footage filmed in a studio set in Los Angeles.

During a break in filming last December, shooting producer Rob Cowan told the Advertiser: "Everyone has heard of the Loch Ness Monster and likewise the Enfield Poltergeist."

The Warner Bros film is the sequel to 2013's The Conjuring and is directed by renowned horror movie man James Wan, who also made The Saw and the Insidious franchise.

The Conjuring 2 stars Patrick Wilson and Vera Farmiga as paranormal investigators Ed and Lorraine Warren, who reprise their roles from the original film, in which they investigated a supernatural entity haunting a family at a secluded farmhouse in the US state of Rhode Island.

'We will give Gabriel the best life possible'

By Clare Casey

newsdesk@nlhnews.co.uk

GABRIEL Chadwick has Duchenne muscular dystrophy, a rare genetic disorder that sends sufferers – almost all of them boys – to an early grave, usually before they are 25.

Speaking out about the heartbreak of Gabriel's initial diagnosis, his mum Ana told the Advertiser about the family's difficult decision to set up a charity to help fund vital research into the deadly wasting disease.

Ana, 31, who lives off Waterfall Road, Southgate, said: "Gabriel is six now and was diagnosed just before his fourth birthday.

"I knew something wasn't right from the age of about two because he struggled to climb up stairs and was slow to run and jump.

"But when they told us what it was, our lives stopped. We felt so lost, it was devastating and heartbreaking. We felt really angry that our little boy had this terrible thing that would take him from us."

Initially, Ana and her husband Stephen, who has his own heating business, began by fundraising for and supporting the bigger Duchenne muscular dystrophy charities, but in March they took the decision to set up their own – www.hopeforgabriel.co.uk

Ana said: "We don't want to think of the future because what Gabriel has is life-limiting and it will only get worse. But we have to be strong for our wonderful boy and his big sister, Brendaly, 11, and work out a way through this.

"We made the decision to set up the charity to raise awareness and fund research in the hope that a cure can soon be found for our little boy and all the others living with Duchenne.

"Some boys have lived with Duchenne until their late 20s, but for others it's as young as ten or 13 years old. We just don't know, every case is different, but what we do know is that we will give Gabriel the best life possible."

Gabriel already has a wheelchair and cannot walk for more than about five minutes without becoming very tired.

Staying strong: Mum Ana Chadwick with her six-year-old son Gabriel

His mum expects that between the age of eight and 12 he will lose the use of his arms and muscles in his upper body.

In the final stages of this cruel disorder Gabriel's heart and lungs will be affected.

The Enfield Community Singers are staging a fundraising concert at St Michael's Church, in Gordon Hill, Enfield, on Saturday, July 2.

Entry to the concert is free and the organisers are hoping that people will be generous with donations. Choral director Simon Gilbert said that the group had been "touched" by Gabriel's story.

"We are a community project essentially and were particularly touched by the plea of Gabriel's mother to help raise awareness for Duchenne. "We really hope to raise as much as possibly for this very worthy cause."

Van on its side after collision

THIS dramatic picture shows the moment firefighters worked to right a transit van that had flipped on to its side in a collision on Saturday afternoon.

The white van and a car collided at about 2.45pm in Chase Side, Enfield, causing long tailbacks and traffic jams.

A police spokesman said: "Officers, London Ambulance Service and London Fire Brigade attended the scene.

"One man, the driver of one of the vehicles involved, was taken to hospital for treatment to minor injuries. The other driver was uninjured.

"There were no arrests." "Inquiries continue into the circumstances surrounding the accident.

Cloudy2Clear Announce Trusted Trader Partnership

ADVERTORIAL

Consumer champions Which? have now joined the thousands of customers who recognise that Cloudy2Clear Windows really are a business that you can TRUST. The company which specialises in repairing windows which are steamed up, broken or damaged by replacing the panes – not the frames has received the coveted 'Which Trusted Trader' status after going through a rigorous accreditation process entirely focussed on customer service.

Group Managing Director Marcus McGee believes that Which? have endorsed Cloudy2Clear's long standing company policy of delivering the highest standards possible at all times. "Our service is simple. If your double glazing has misted up we can replace the glass at a fraction of the cost of a new window, in any type of frame, and with a new 25 year guarantee.

But it's not just about saving people money, although that obviously helps. Whilst a number of tradespeople perhaps don't focus on customer care as much as they should do, we make sure we turn up when we say we will, do the job the customer requires and leave their house as clean as a whistle.

Locally Cloudy2Clear service the Enfield, Edmonton, Palmers Green, Winchmore Hill & Southgate areas and manager Richard Power agrees that this approach is a major factor in his success. "The truth is that it's not just the personal satisfaction that I get from doing a good job but also it makes good business sense. I get a huge amount of business from friends and family of people I've done work for, which just goes to show how much a little bit of effort is appreciated as both my customers and, obviously a body as nationally important as Which? now recognise."

So, if your windows are steamed up, broken or damaged give Richard a call for a free quotation on 0800 61 21 118 and he'll be happy to help!

"Cloudy2Clear GUARANTEE All Customers That An Average Quote Will Take No Longer Than 20 MINS!!!"

Watch out, there's a fox in the house

Vet rescues cub from dishwasher

By Julia Gregory

julia.gregory@nlhnews.co.uk

WHEN Winchmore Hill vet Simon Hayes opened his dishwasher, he found a fox cub cowering in the corner.

He said he has no idea how the young animal was able to get into the dishwasher at his home, among all the dirty plates.

Luckily, he had not put the machine on or the cub might have suffered from the high temperature of the hot water used for cleaning crockery and cutlery.

Mr Hayes, who works at Village Vet's surgery in Station Road, has his own menagerie of cats and a dog at home.

Writing on its Facebook page, the practice described the fox rescue, saying: "The head vet had a bit of a shock when he walked into his kitchen and found a fox cub in his dishwasher."

"Simon managed to coax the terrified little guy out and he ran outside to be reunited with mum. A bit different from finding next door's cat in your house."

Mr Hayes thinks the cub comes from a den near his home where a vixen has several cubs.

He said his dog was unfazed and his children thought it was hilarious that they had such an unusual visitor.

He said: "He must have come in the open back door and been looking for food. Poor thing was petrified and kept trying to chew on the racks."

"I tried to see if he would let me pick him up, but he was obviously too scared. I moved the tray out to give him an escape route, but he seemed to want to stay."

"Now I love all animals, but I'm not sure my dishwasher is the best place to keep a fox, so I went to get a broom and gently coaxed him out. He ran into the garden and I could hear his mum calling, so they must have been reunited."

Last year a kitten he rehomed befriended a fox

cub in his garden and he said he thought the cub was from the same family.

He said he was astounded by the attention he had got from as far afield as the United States, Sweden and Ireland after a video on his blog post at vetsimon.blogspot.co.uk went viral.

Curtains up at Chickenshed

On the way up: The new blinds are fitted at Chickenshed Theatre, in Southgate

IT'S new curtains for Southgate's Chickenshed Theatre.

The inclusive theatre, in Chase Side, needed replacement blinds for curtains which were too difficult for some students to manoeuvre.

The theatre also needed to exclude every spot of light to create a total blackout effect in the building and build dramatic tension as audiences awaited action on the stage.

Susan Jamson, from Chickenshed, said: "We are delighted that for the first time in our history we are going to have the most magnificent electric blackout blinds in our studio theatre."

Some students struggled to raise and lower the heavy curtains as they prepared for end-of-year productions and also found it difficult to raise and lower blinds manually.

A Hertfordshire-based company offered to donate and fit new electric blinds to cover a glass wall at Chickenshed's studio theatre.

The 175 full-time students can now control the blinds at the flick of a switch – just in time for their farewell productions.

Experts from the Hitchin-based Shy (UK) company fitted the new blinds this week on Monday.

Columnist

Enfield Green Party

Just over a week you will be asked to cast your vote in the most important election of your life.

The referendum campaign so far has been characterised by lies and half-truths on both sides, so let's look at some of the positives of staying in the EU.

The first is peace. I was born less than two years after the end of the second devastating war in 30 years, but by the time I was an adult, war in western Europe was unthinkable – and that was in large part because of the existence of the EU.

The Brexiteers fear and demonise foreigners, but the influx of Europeans (and others) has enriched our lives and our culture.

They create as many jobs as they take and are net contributors to the economy. Meanwhile we can travel – and work or retire – anywhere we like in Europe.

The EU has instituted stronger environmental policies than our own governments would have done left to themselves, on pollution, GM crops, climate change and more.

If we leave, all that goes by the board. The same applies to human rights – do you trust the Tories with those? I don't.

Certainly, the EU needs reform – but so does Westminster. At least MEPs are elected by a fair voting system.

Walking away throws the baby out with the bath water. Better to stay in and fight for the necessary reform. Another Europe is possible, but only if we stay in.

The real truth about the so-called Energy Union

IN the biggest-ever online petition, nearly two million people voted against government plans for road pricing.

If the UK votes to stay in the EU, we can look forward to it being imposed through the back door.

The UK government has enthusiastically backed EU proposals for "Energy Union". Unfortunately, it has been less open about the small print, which goes well beyond energy measures.

The European Commission intends to publish legislative proposals for road pricing and the "transformation of the entire transport system" just after our referendum.

In its under-publicised Transport White Paper, the commission proposed a single European transport area, with compulsory charges on all vehicles on all roads.

Although we are sometimes assured that deciding vehicle charges is a national matter, that does not wash – the commission recently took legal action against the UK government over its daily charge for foreign HGVs. The commission would prefer to have per mile/km charging, which would involve intrusively tracking and recording our journeys. It has also warned that we would pay more.

There is still time to discuss this important matter and raise it with our elected representatives.

Vote for the environment

SOME of our country's most well-known and well-loved environmental and wildlife charities have thrown their support behind the UK's continued membership of the EU.

Although EU funding, which amounts to more than £215 million per year across the third sector, is vital for all UK charities, it is especially important for those with a smaller "earned income", such as ones that play an active and important role in the protection of our environment and wildlife.

I hope that people up and down the country will join together and speak up about what the EU does for our environment.

The wider public deserve to know that more than anything else, it's the EU that ensures that our beaches are clean, our air is safe and our forests and endangered species are protected.

The EU is now also pressurising the government to tackle the killer that is pollution. It's in nobody's interest for us to return to the bad old days when we were the dirty man of the continent.

Plus, when it comes to the EU and the environment, funding is only half of the story.

As the problems associated with climate change don't stop at borders, tackling them requires international cooperation.

The choice on June 23 is taking the lead in Europe or shirking our responsibility.

Nicholas Da Costa

Liberal Democrat Candidate for Enfield and Haringey London Assembly 2016 Election

Ask yourselves this question...

APART from certain obvious advantages gained from being in the EU, eg employment statute benefits, it would appear that many people still view the Remain and Leave campaigns as being an ambiguous "time will tell" trade-off of loss or gain and that the really pertinent issues of the forthcoming referendum, such as the City and finance, trade, immigration, investment and jobs, have become shrouded by a potentially precarious "should we dare" smokescreen of uncertainty.

I feel in all honesty the only thing one can do when faced with this type of dilemma and quandary is to ask yourself this question, since being in the EU, has my quality of life inclusive of the social amenities that help to facilitate it improved or deteriorated? – and then vote accordingly.

What has happened to the duty of care?

I AM writing as a resident of Enfield who has served in the voluntary sector and worked with the police partnership boards for almost 30 years.

I have also chaired several boards and community groups, including that of Enfield Homes until it was taken back into the council in April 2015.

The relationship the council had with its tenants and residents is fast becoming historical with many not being listened to at all.

I would like to ask Enfield Council where its duty of care has gone. There seems to be little or indeed no community relations in the borough now, something Enfield in the past took pride in.

How are residents supposed to have a face-to-face conversation when the many forums that existed to enable local issues to be dealt with are now, if you are able to use a computer, the only form of communication available to them? I am afraid that the population of Enfield will never manage to be "totally online".

I happily live in sheltered accommodation with like-minded residents. However, the level of support you would imagine would be offered is now sadly lacking.

How would council staff manage with no heating or hot water for a week? Despite numerous calls and promises to repair the fault, it took a repair man and his screwdriver 30 minutes to sort the problem.

We have no staff on site daily apart from a visiting officer, who is very helpful. When situations or problems arise, it's fellow residents who offer help. I believed that when I elected to move into sheltered housing it was to be secure and helped should the need arise. The title senior citizen does not mean please ignore me. Or does it?

Looks as if there's a bit of confusion

I DON'T know the complexities of Carterhatch Lane, but councillor Daniel Anderson's quote in your article was at best confusing and probably just wrong ("New camera helps council to coin it in – at drivers' expense", Advertiser, June 8).

He said: "If you don't stop in a box junction, you won't receive a penalty charge notice".

In fact, if you are turning right and your exit to the right is clear when you go into the box, it is absolutely legitimate to stop in the box, until the traffic coming towards you has stopped.

Indeed it is probably the only way you would ever be able to turn right in London traffic.

Many people are confused about yellow boxes and it looks like Mr Anderson may be one of them.

Duo's delight at Royal honours

By Julia Gregory

julia.gregory@nlhnews.co.uk

A SPORTS fan who set up the youth section of a hockey club and has helped other community clubs and charities has been awarded an honour in the Queen's 90th birthday honours list.

Kishore Bilimoria, who started the youth section at Winchmore Hill and Enfield Hockey Club, has been honoured with the British Empire Medal.

He has also been awarded the club's Jock Brunton Trophy for a member who has made an outstanding contribution twice and has developed a financial management and strategy for the club.

A club spokesman said: "He is a fine example to the club's younger members of reliability and dedication to a common cause."

He started playing at the club as a teenager. He was club captain for several years and still plays the game in the winter. In the summer, he plays for Edmonton Cricket Club.

He said: "I started off mini-hockey in the 1980s for the youngsters because we wanted to grow the club. It was effectively a men's hockey club at the time."

Mr Bilimoria, of Brantwood Gardens, Enfield, is a certified chartered accountant and has also served as club treasurer for several years. He also became company secretary for the Law Society Charity.

"I wanted to do something to put something back," he said.

The 68-year-old also played a key role as honorary treasurer at the London Playing Fields Foundation as it developed a three-year business plan.

He even took a masters degree in corporate governance and finance as he qualified as a chartered secretary to help with his voluntary work.

Mr Bilimoria added: "It's special and I feel absolutely honoured to be recognised in the Queen's 90th birthday honours. It's something I've enjoyed doing."

A gong has also gone to Matthew Miller, chairman of the governors at Highlands School, in Worlds End Lane, Winchmore Hill, who was made an MBE for his work as a national leader of school governors, supporting governing bodies.

Highlands School headteacher Bruce Goddard said: "Matt is admired by all those who come into contact with him for his professionalism and dedication to this unique role which endeavours to provide existing governing bodies with the knowledge and skills to ensure that standards are raised in their own schools."

In the honours: Kishore Bilimoria, above, has been awarded the British Empire Medal and Matthew Miller, below, has been made an MBE

FAMILY ANNOUNCEMENTS

ANNE-MARIE SANDERSON

Watch this space: Zephaniah Lindo, a lecturer at Capel Manor College, is a new presenter on BBC Two show Gardeners' World

By Ruth McKee
ruth.mckee@nlhnews.co.uk

GARDENERS' World, the TV show that has become a staple of Friday night on BBC Two, has a very particular type of presenter.

And the lecturer loping through Capel Manor Gardens discussing the importance to the soul of wide, open vistas may not match up with that image.

"I spent the first part of my childhood living with my family on top of a mountain in the north of Wales and throughout my life I've always come back to needing that sense of space," Zephaniah Lindo, 45, tells the Advertiser as he strides out through the bushes and neat gardens of the grounds.

The new recruit has had unconventional route into gardening and could not be more different from the stereotype of the "proficient amateur" the show has sometimes seemed to promote.

When he left school in Manchester at 16, Zephaniah was itching to get into the world of work. He packed in his studies that summer and walked on to a golfing green, helping to maintain the grass.

He describes the joy of the bright early mornings and the sun beating down as a blissful time, of much-needed respite from the concrete of Manchester.

But, with winter, his job changed and he started working in a branch of Next.

"It was a basement shop, so in winter I would go in in the morning and it would be dark, and I would leave in the evening and it would be dark. I never saw the sun," he said.

Realising that a life lived away from the outdoors, completely cut off from the natural world, was not for him he began working with building contractors and while working on new houses he started a sideline in helping new homeowners tame their gardens.

"Gradually, the gardening became more and more and I had to choose between keeping on with the building or going full time into gardening," he said.

"So I took the plunge and set up my own gardening business."

His business was flourishing when disaster struck one cold winter night.

"My friend called me, I remember it was a cold winter night in January, he asked me to go out and play some football so I did, but it was such a freezing night I slipped and tore all the ligaments in my knee," he recalled.

He was out of action for months and started studying at Capel Manor College, in Bullsmoor Lane, Enfield, trying to formalise the skills he had built up over the years.

It's not only his unconventional route into gardening that sets him apart from what people perhaps expect from a Gardeners' World presenter.

His passion about how vital nature, horticulture and plants are to young people who grow up surrounded by built-up developments and concrete sets him apart from the legions on TV gardeners who seem more interested in large suburban and rural country gardens than in community gardening.

How foster homes offer the stability to succeed

By Ruth McKee

ruth.mckee@nlhnews.co.uk

TWO young people who are at the forefront of helping looked-after children in the borough have explained how their own foster carers provided stability and security in their lives.

Sarah Miller, 26, is one of the key members of Kratos, the Children in Care Council, who points to the stability in a longer-term foster placement that grounded her.

At an event organised by Enfield Council, she said: "When I was younger, I was in three different foster homes in the space of four years because they were mostly short-term placements. But then I was placed with a family from the age of nine until 16 and it was good to know in that time that I wouldn't have to move again."

Her fellow Kratos alumnus George Frith, 19, agrees that it was a long-term placement which helped him excel at school.

George, who will be starting university in September, says he benefited from the government's change to care guidelines which allow young people to stay with their foster families past the age of 16 to give them support throughout the rest of their teens.

"I was six when I went to live with my family and for that whole time they have treated me like one of the family," he said.

"That made me feel stable. I had no special treatment and wasn't treated any differently to their own children."

The council is hoping that its latest drive to promote the positive power of fostering will drive up the numbers of people applying to be foster parents and point to the successes

A family affair: Amma McKenzie says she always knew that she was going to be a foster parent of people such as Amma McKenzie, who always knew that her family would include foster children.

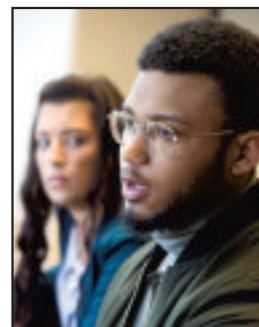

"When I was younger, there was a point where I could have gone off the rails, but there were teachers and my mum and their support helped me to see the importance of staying on in school," she said.

"Knowing how powerful a stable home life can be I always wanted to be a foster carer."

She is currently pregnant with her second child and also has her first placement living with her, her husband, her mother and her daughter.

"I wanted to do this when my children were still little, so they could see that it's just a normal part of their lives, that this is always how it will be," she added.

No Jake? no problem

A PREMIER League football star had been expected to attend the official opening of a new hair salon.

But staff at Cult Salon, in Green Lanes, Palmers Green, were left disappointed when news arrived that Hull City player and former Enfield Grammar School pupil Jake Livermore could not make it due to family commitments.

But the day was saved by deputy mayor of Enfield Christine Hamilton, who cut the ribbon and declared the salon officially open.

The business, which has been open for three months, is a step into the unknown for independent financial adviser Tony George, who has no previous experience of the hairdressing industry.

But he has a team of senior stylists behind him and has introduced features into the salon which, he says, sets it apart from other high street salons.

"We have some tough competition along the high street, but I hope people will come along and support us," said the father-of-two, who is a friend of former Spurs midfielder Jake's father.

The unisex salon is located near to the Green Lanes junction with Hedge Lane and Bourne Hill.

Development 'will bridge homes gap'

By Clare Casey

news.enfield@nlhnews.co.uk

DRESSED in the obligatory hard hats and high visibility jackets, officials survey the plot of a multi-million-pound project that they promise will "transform" High Street, Ponders End.

The £46million Electric Quarter scheme – due for completion early in 2019 – will see the former Middlesex University site in High Street turned into 167 new homes, a replacement library and "high quality" shops.

The scheme gets its name from electric light bulb inventor Joseph Swan, who lived in High Street and whose manufacturing company the Edison and Swan United Electric Light Company, known commonly as Ediswan, had a factory in Ponders End.

The development will have one to four-bedroomed homes, 52 of which will be "affordable", for shared ownership and intermediate rent, and additional play space for children.

Ahmet Oyken, Enfield Council's cabinet member for housing and housing regeneration, said: "The council is absolutely committed to improving and increasing the supply of housing in this borough to tackle the current pressure we are experiencing and this development will play a key role in increasing the amount of housing stock available in Enfield for residents.

"We urgently need more homes in Enfield to cope with population growth and this new development will go some way towards bridging the gap."

The council believes that the scheme will deliver a "major boost" for the borough's economy.

Construction firm Lovell will provide up to 10 apprenticeships for Enfield youngsters, as well as opportunities for work experience, and aims to draw more than a quarter of its workers from the borough.

Alan Sitkin, cabinet member for economic regeneration and business, added: "This fantastic scheme will help provide work and training for local people and will make Ponders End an even more attractive local shopping area."

YOU ARE INVITED TO

A FREE ASSESSMENT AND VALUATION DAY

You are invited to attend our assessment, valuation and purchase days, where TOP PRICES are agreed and offered. Just bring along your chosen items; our valuer will give you a free appraisal and a current estimation of value. We will then discuss your best course of action and either make an offer of purchase or provide advice on your other options.

Antiques television programmes have made people more aware of the potential value of their belongings, however, the best method of realising the true cash value is not always made clear.

There are many items that are not so obviously valuable and this is where the professional valuer's expertise comes in.

There are times when the exposure of an auction is beneficial – let our experts help you to decide, but many items, where a known or intrinsic value can be simply assessed such as Gold, are just not suited for sale at auction.

Without advice, auctions can actually LOSE you money. After weeks of waiting, and assuming your item sells - commission charges, premiums and taxes reduce your likely share to only two thirds of the total transaction payment!

This is how we are able to offer you a high purchase figure as there's no premium for us and NO STOPPAGES for you, just an immediate cash settlement.

What's on and what's coming

By Russ Lawrence

russ.lawrence@nlhnews.co.uk

IF anyone can make those who insist poetry is not for them change their minds, it's people's poet Roger McGough.

As one of Britain's best known and admired contemporary poets, he has done more than most to popularise the art form and rid it of its high-brow image.

The veteran performance poet, author and playwright, brings a sparkling evening of verse and virtuosity to the Dugdale Centre, in London Road, Enfield Town, next Friday (June 24) when he appears as part of a poetry double bill.

In a career which has spanned almost half a century, the 78-year-old Liverpoolian's hilarious and witty poems have brought poetry to a much wider audience.

He is appearing with Little Machine, a group of musicians, composers and writers in the shape of Walter Wray, Steve Haliwell and Chris Hardy.

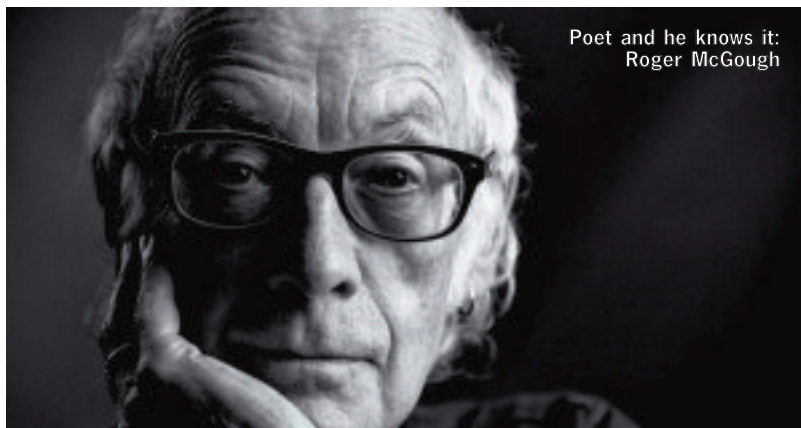

They set classic poems from the likes of Sappho, Chaucer, Blake, Byron, Eliot, Larkin and many others to music, all performed with energy, passion and humour.

Both Little Machine and McGough will be fresh from appearing at the Hay Literary Festival.

McGough – described by Britain's Poet Laureate Carol Ann Duffy as the patron saint of poets – first gained recognition in the 1960s as the leading member of a group of young Liverpool poets influenced by the pop music and culture of the time.

And as a member of pop group The Scaffold, he went on to have a chart-topping number one hit, Lily the Pink.

He has had countless anthologies and books published in addition to being a performance poet, broadcaster, children's author, playwright and presenter of Radio 4's Poetry Please.

His poems, many of them laced with humour and wordplay, have meant a restricted appreciation of his work as "serious poetry" by some critics, but there is no denying how influential he has been in making poetry accessible to all, with some of his poems on the English school curriculum.

He says there is much more interest in poetry nowadays with slam poetry competitions and spoken word open mic nights, but admits "it will never be the new rock 'n' roll, nor should it be".

Enfield goes to Hollywood

THE CONJURING 2 (15, 134 mins)

DIRECTED by James Wan, one of the twisted geniuses responsible for the Saw franchise, the 2013 supernatural horror The Conjuring was one of the surprise hits of the year.

This sequel, with Wan back in the director's chair, draws inspiration from the notorious real-life case of the Enfield poltergeist, which sent shivers down the spine in the late 1970s.

Paranormal investigators Ed and Lorraine Warren (Patrick Wilson and Vera Farmiga) have gone into self-imposed exile to recover – emotionally and spiritually – from their first brush with malevolent spirits. They are compelled to return to active duty by terrified single mother Peggy Hodgson (Frances O'Connor), who claims that her house in Brimsdown is in the grip of a dark, invisible force.

The Warrens travel to England and meet Peggy and her four daughters, who are clearly spooked by events in their home.

When youngest child Janet (Madison Wolfe) shows the unmistakable signs of demonic possession, Ed and Lorraine prepare for battle for the family's souls and, consequently, they become the targets for the malicious spirit's fury.

Released: June 13

GODS OF EGYPT (12A, 127 mins)

SWORDS, sandals and silliness are in abundance in Alex Proyas' lumbering fantasy adventure, set in a sprawling ancient Egypt in which shape-shifting gods live side by side with awestruck mortals.

Spooked: Vera Farmiga in The Conjuring 2

According to a laconic voiceover, the deities are easily identifiable because they are taller and have "gold running through their veins".

Alas, there is no gold – fool's or otherwise – running through Matt Sazama and Burk Sharpless' uneven script, which is heavy on the muscle-flexing and sibling rivalry and light on everything that matters: coherent plotting, characterisation, dramatic momentum or emotional depth.

The tone is wildly uneven, careening between bombastic, computer-generated spectacle, bickering romance and mismatched buddy comedy.

Even the digital trickery can't find its groove. A chariot sequence is hilariously shoddy in its execution, special effects don't gel with live action elements and director Proyas insists on choreographing every bruising fight sequence with swirling camerawork and excessive slow motion.

Gods Of Egypt is a morass of oiled pecs, male posturing and tiresome showdowns between exiled heroes and otherworldly creatures.

Gerard Butler chews scenery with a roaring Scottish accent like a man who hasn't eaten for months, while Nikolaj Coster-Waldau and Brenton Thwaites are bland and possess no palpable screen chemistry.

During one of their awkward verbal jousts, Thwaites questions if his hunky co-star is being funny.

"You think I put any effort into trying to amuse you?" responds Coster-Waldau Gods Of Egypt certainly doesn't muster any effort to entertain us.

LUXURY NEW HOMES IN HIGH CROSS

A new five-bedroom showhome is now open at David Wilson Homes' prestigious Canterbury Park development near Ware

Known as the Moorecroft, this versatile family home with large open plan kitchen/dining room has French doors opening out to the garden. The dual-aspect lounge also opens onto the garden, while a separate study and a cloakroom are also located on the ground floor. Four of the five bedrooms are doubles including the master bedroom on the top floor which has an en-suite and large walk-in dressing room. There is a family bathroom on the first floor and bedroom two also has an en-suite.

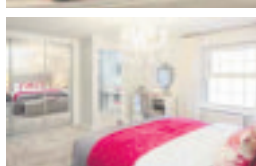

Glenn Copper, senior sales manager at David Wilson Homes North Thames, said: "We have a range of superb family homes and visiting the showhome will give people a taste of life at Canterbury Park. As well as looking around, visitors will also have the opportunity to speak to our knowledgeable sales advisers who will be on hand to offer advice and answer any questions."

Once completed, Canterbury Park will feature a total of 57 four and five-bedroom homes set among green open spaces. The homes have been designed to complement the development's village setting and rural surroundings. Residents will be able to make the most of village life in High Cross with plenty of walks and cycle routes on the doorstep while there is also a local pub. The historic town of Ware is within easy reach, just three miles away, where there is a selection of shops and restaurants as well as the train station with its direct link to London.

Peter Cunningham of Lanes New Homes commented: "All the home styles at Canterbury Park including the Hurst shown here have proved popular since the showhome opened and there is currently only one five-bedroom Moorecroft plot for sale priced at £294,950. Other styles of four-bedroom homes are available now from £144,950."

David Wilson Homes has been awarded the maximum five-star official rating from the Home Builders Federation (HBF) for the seventh year. In a row. The news was announced after more than 45,000 new homebuyers across the country took part in this year's HBF customer satisfaction survey.

Good value – but be quick

By Matt Kimberley

YOU'D better move fast if you want one of these. The Mii by Mango Limited Edition is exactly that: its exclusive Oryx pearl white paint, special plum-finished 15-inch alloy wheels, plum upholstery and matching trim accents inside and out are only being brought to the UK 125 times.

Just 20 are so far in the country and registered to customers. That's right, the Mii by Mango L.E. is rarer than most Ferraris.

It's based on the excellent standard car, with the marginally pokier 74bhp 1.0-litre three-cylinder engine. It still uses low-friction tyres, like the standard car, and it's no heavier. The Mango is all about adding style rather than mechanical upgrades.

The standard Mii by Mango falls a bit flat in the style stakes, but the "Velvet" purple-on-white of the L.E.

works a treat. It's much more noticeable, different and, with so few in the country, much more exclusive. You wouldn't want to pull up at the traffic lights next to another one, now would you?

Seat holds its hands up and openly admits the Mango is aimed at women; young women with at least one and a half eyes on the fashion industry. But in fairness there's nothing about the design, colours, shape or driving experience that would put men off, except maybe the Mango badges, but then again, there's such a thing as a Mango Man department these days.

It's always amazing how much room the Mii platform, along with its Citroën and Up triplets, gives to both passengers and luggage. Two people can pack a week's luggage into the boot, if they've got a good record on Tetris, and four adults can sit back in comfort in the five-door cabin. It's a little Tardis, this car, especially as a five-door.

A dinky 35-litre fuel tank isn't going to get you very far, in theory, but the reality kicks that fear square in the baby-maker. It's easy to top 60mpg in the real world and on one trip in the test car we even saw just over 70mpg. Treat it right and you'll reach 400 miles per tank.

Having driven three of these supposedly mechanically identical cars lately, some seem sweeter than others. The tester here is a gem, responding quickly and pulling strongly (for a one-litre), with no rattles, squeaks or knocks from the suspension. The thrummy three-cylinder engine does sterling work and zings its way up to 70mph much more speedily than its figures would suggest.

The five-speed gearbox does mean the car is calmest below 50mph and gets a bit rowdy at 70mph, but at least this one has (optional) cruise control. It turns with a little more dynamism than the standard Mii, thanks to the larger wheels and lower-profile tyres that, nonetheless, don't compromise the ride quality.

If there's a perfect chassis configuration for this car, the Mango L.E. has it. As for the seats, they are all perfectly comfy for journeys up to 50 or 60 miles, but are a bit too soft for real long-distance work.

If you can even get hold of one, given that they're so few in number, the base price of a shade under £12,000 means value depends on what you compare it to.

It's £800 cheaper than a pre-options Fiat 500 Lounge equipped with the forgettable 1.2-litre 68bhp four-cylinder engine and more than £2,100 cheaper than the same 500 with the characterful 84bhp TwinAir motor. On that comparison, the Mango L.E. looks like superb value.

CONDITIONS OF ACCEPTANCE FOR ALL ADVERTISEMENTS

Orders are accepted by the Publishers subject to the Standard Conditions agreed between the Newspaper Society and the Institute of Practitioners in Advertising. Save that:

1. Advertisements are accepted on the conditions that (a) descriptions relating to goods are accurate and in no way contravene the provisions of the Trade Descriptions Act 1968, and the Fair Trading Act 1973, and (b) the copy complies with the British Code of Advertising Practice. Advertisements offering credit or hire facilities must conform to the Consumer Credit (Advertisements) Regulations 1980.
2. 'Classified' Advertisers offering goods or service of a business, commercial or trade nature will, at the discretion of the Publishers, be deemed 'Trade Advertisers', and as such, must include their names in advertisements. A telephone number is an optional addition to these requirements and not an alternative.
3. To comply with the Business Advertisements (Disclosure) Order 1977, Trade Advertisers must make it clear that they are selling goods in the course of business either by content, format, size or place of the advertisement or by including words such as 'trade', 'dealer', 'agent', 'wholesaler', '(T)' etc. in the advertisement.
4. The Publishers will endeavour to publish advertisements on the day / date or day / dates specified by the Advertiser but insertion days / dates cannot be guaranteed.
5. Where shrinkage of advertisement occurs for whatever reasons the advertisement will be charged to the nearest full centimetre. This will NOT apply to the full-page advertisements, which remain full pages even after shrinkage.
6. The Publishers reserve the right to reject an advertisement or to vary it in any way they deem fit, at any time before publication, whether or not the advertisement has already been accepted for publication.
7. Whilst every effort is made to minimise errors in advertisements, mistakes do sometimes occur. Advertisers or their agents should therefore check their advertisements and inform us of any errors immediately. Responsibility cannot be accepted for more than one incorrect insertion. Typographical or minor changes, which do not affect the value of the advertisement, do not qualify for republication or allowances.
8. All gross advertising rates (except classified line and semi-display) are subject to and include a 0.1% Advertising Standards Board of Finance surcharge, payable by the advertisers to help finance the self-regulatory control system administered by the Advertising Standards Authority.
9. All rates quoted are subject to VAT at the rate currently in force at the time the advertisement appears.
10. Should the rate for advertisements be altered the price for remaining insertions shall be revised accordingly or the publishers shall have the right to cancel the unexpired portion of the order.
11. The placing of an advertisement order will be deemed an acceptance of these conditions.
12. Account facilities are granted at the discretion of the Company.
13. All accounts must be settled within the terms agreed by the Company and the Customer.
  - (1) Should an advertiser be in breach of the agreed terms, the publisher shall be entitled to levy a 10% surcharge on the value of the whole debt in respect of accounts with terms of less than 30 days, and any discounts or commissions that had been allowed will be reclaimed.
  - (2) Regular monthly accounts that are in breach of the agreed terms will pay an interest rate of 6% above the current bank of England base rate for each month that the account is overdue and discounts or commissions that had been allowed will be reclaimed. Should Legal action be required the interest will be charged in accordance with the County Court Act 1984.
14. Where an advertiser instructs / appoints an advertising agent to act on their behalf, the advertiser will remain jointly and severally liable for payment in respect for an advertisement(s) should the appointed agent fail to pay. For the avoidance of doubt, the agent acts for the advertiser and not for the publisher with the agent being responsible for notifying the advertiser of this liability.
15. All queries must be notified, preferably in writing to the accounts department of the publisher within 7 days of the invoice date.
16. All digital services are maintained in partnership with the publishers' hosting service providers. Every effort is made to ensure the continuity of these services, but some occasional technical downtime beyond the publishers control may occur. The publisher and its associated companies shall be under no liability if the production and distribution of web services is delayed or prevented by any cause beyond the control of the publisher.
17. The Publisher may provide voucher copies for published advertisements in electronic form only subject to certain criteria. Further information is available on request.
18. The copyright of advertisements produced wholly or partially by the Publishers belong to the Publishers. Advertisers may not reproduce such advertisements without the Publishers' consent.

Box Numbers

Boxes are open for the receipt of bona fide answers and are not available for distribution of trade canvassing matter. Original testimonials, goods, cash, cash stamps or payments of any kind must not be enclosed. A box Number and postal address are charged as part of the advertisement, i.e. Box No., centre address. There is no charge for forwarding replies.

Box numbers alone are not available for use in 'Trade' advertisements, other than Employment and Business Opportunities.

Holiday & Travel Category

All advertising must contain the name of the advertiser, phone number alone are not permitted.

Data Protection

The service you have requested may require us to carry out a credit search at a credit-referencing agency, which will record the fact that a search has been made. We may need to share your information with other lenders and credit reference agencies. However, we will only use the information from these searches to make credit-granting decisions and, if necessary, for fraud prevention or tracing debtors. Data controller will use your information for administration and analysis. We may share your information with other Tindle Group Newspaper companies or carefully selected third parties. We, or they, may send you details of other goods and services, which may be of interest to you. The information may be provided by letter, telephone or other reasonable means of communication. Calls may be recorded or monitored for training purposes.

Special conditions apply with regard to the advertising of adult services, which are outlined to all persons submitting such advertisements.

Food & Textiles Technician

Grade: Hay 3

Contract: Term time; 3 days a week (19.5 hours per week, £7,577.14)

A vacancy has arisen for a part time Food & Textiles technician who will support both staff and students in the respective subjects.

You need to be outgoing, enthusiastic and have a passion for Design & Technology. The ability to form positive relationships with students and to actively engage students in their learning is essential.

You will have experience working in Food Technology and/or Textiles, either within education or industry, and will demonstrate the confidence to use specialist equipment within these areas. Experience of food preparation and using sewing machines, as well as an understanding of food hygiene, are essential. Excellent organisation is required to support colleagues with general departmental administration.

We are a friendly department who rely on and support each other, working together to bring about the best outcomes for our students. It is essential that you are able to work effectively within a team, and have a flexible and friendly attitude.

DIER THRILLED BY RAPID PROGRESS

By Dominique Stafford

sport.enfield@nlhnews.co.uk

ERIC DIER admits that he can hardly believe the way that the last 12 months have turned out for him.

The Tottenham Hotspur star had previously been playing in defence, but a switch last summer to a holding mid-field role led to a dramatic transformation in his career as Dier became an integral part of the Spurs side who mounted a sustained challenge for the Premier League title for much of the season.

Dier's terrific form led to him breaking into the England squad and he scored the winner in their 3-2 friendly victory over world champions Germany earlier this year, before also finding the target in Saturday's 1-1 draw against Russia in Euro 2016.

"It's been an incredible journey from playing those games behind-closed-doors in pre-season," he said. "It's been amazing.

"You don't get a lot of time to think about it. During the season it's non-stop, game after game and you get on with it. After the goal for England against Germany I was back at Tottenham training the next day.

"It's one big game after another and you don't really get the time to think about it. Maybe I will later in the summer when I'm on holiday. It's been a fantastic season, but I'm only 22 and I hope to top this season with better ones in the future.

"We don't want to be a stereotypical side at Spurs. We want to be our own side, play good aggressive football and to be respected. We've come a long way, but there is a lot more we can do."

Dier added: "To be so close and miss out on the title hurt. It was a tough week after the Chelsea game, because when you know it's gone that's when it really sinks in.

"After the game the lads were saying we need to remember this feeling, and that's the feeling we will carry into next season.

"There are a lot of things we'll learn from the season and will definitely change next season and on top of that, carry all the great things we've done into next season. If we mix the two things together, hopefully it will be another great season for us."

Meanwhile, Spurs and France skipper Hugo Lloris expressed his relief after helping his country to snatch a last-gasp 2-1 win over Romania in the opening match of Euro 2016 on Friday.

"The win is massive for our confidence," he said. "There was a lot of pressure on our shoulders before this opening game.

"Now we have both feet in the competition and focus on the next game. At this level there are no easy matches. We expected that kind of game, tight with a lot of challenges. We need to keep this spirit and improve our football, step by step.

"It was a great feeling to start the tournament and not easy to manage our emotions. The national anthem was different than usual, but finally we won after a tight game and we feel proud of that."

A season to remember: The past year has seen Eric Dier establish himself as a key player for Tottenham

Defeat sees Hornsey fall from the top

HORNSEY'S perfect start to the season in Division Two of the Middlesex County Cricket League came to an end on Saturday as they suffered a shock two-wicket defeat at lowly Acton to lose their grip on top spot in the table.

Having won their first five league matches, Hornsey produced a solid performance with the bat after losing the toss and William Prest (60), Joe Emmanuel (44), Shenal Siriwardhane (43) and Paul Weekes (39) all played well to enable them to declare on 229-8. John Reeve took 5-84 for the hosts.

Yasir Mahmood (58) got Acton's reply off to a good start and Andrew Niblett (50) took them closer to victory before they eventually edged to their target as they made it to 230-8.

There was also disappointment for Highgate in the same division as they lost by 99 runs at new leaders Finchley.

Philip Hughes struck a superb unbeaten 116 and Sumeet Sharma chipped in with 72 as the hosts posted 250-7 batting first – and this total proved far too much for a Highgate side who could only reach 151 in reply.

Meanwhile, North Middlesex slipped to a four-wicket defeat in their Premier Division match at Stanmore.

Ron Fahrenheim (55) held the top order together as wickets tumbled around him after North Middlesex had been put in to bat, and some useful contributions from the tail enabled them to get up to a score of 202, with Tushaar Karia taking 5-55.

Stanmore fell to 34-4 in reply, but Andrew Rule (70) and Kush Patel (47) added 114 for the fifth wicket and they eventually cruised to 203-6.

However, North London enjoyed a successful day as they snatched a dramatic two-run victory at home to South Hampstead in Division Three.

Jordan Gregory began a memorable all-round display by making 75 to help North London recover from 85-7 to post a final total of 198.

And Gregory was equally impressive with the ball, finishing with figures of 5-42 as South Hampstead collapsed from 149-2 to be bowled out for 196.

North Middlesex host Twickenham on Saturday, while Hornsey entertain Barnes, Highgate are at home to Enfield and North London visit Kenton.

Skolars come from behind to seal win

THE London Skolars overcame a slow start to secure a dramatic 42-34 victory at home to Barrow Raiders in rugby league's Kingstone Press Championship One on Saturday.

The hosts appeared in danger of suffering a fifth defeat in six matches when they fell 12-0 behind early on, but they came storming back and a dominant second-half display enabled them to seal the win.

Barrow opened the scoring on ten minutes when Ryan Fieldhouse grabbed a try which Chris Hankinson converted, and they doubled their advantage moments later as Fieldhouse applied the finishing touches to a flowing move to claim another converted try.

But the Skolars gradually sprang into life and they got themselves on the scoreboard midway through the first half courtesy of a converted try from Dave Williams.

The hosts got back on level terms on 27 minutes as Toby Everitt touched down and a Jy-Mel Coleman penalty put them ahead for the first time soon after.

However, Barrow finished the first half the stronger and Fieldhouse completed his hat-trick before Hankinson – who converted the try – added a penalty to leave them 20-14 in front at the interval.

The Skolars were a different proposition in the second period though and Billy Driver and Alex Walker touched down in quick succession for tries which were both converted by Coleman.

Coleman then added a penalty to extend the hosts' advantage to eight points, but Barrow hit back and a Max Wiper try, coupled with a conversion and penalty from Hankinson, brought them back on level terms.

The visitors were falling foul of the referee on a regular basis however and three Coleman penalties, combined with a converted try from Eddie Mbarga, saw them open up a commanding lead with time running out.

Shane Toal gave Barrow a glimmer of hope by touching down for a converted try to close the gap to six points with three minutes remaining, but the hosts held firm and sealed victory through a Sam Druce penalty from the final play of the game.

The London Skolars visit South Wales Scorpions on Sunday (3pm).
